

AUTHOR BIOGRAPHY

Florence A. Juma, RP

Rev. (Dr.) Florence A. Juma, RP is a Ministry Associate and a Registered Psychotherapist based in Waterloo, Ontario. She is ordained with the Pentecostal Assemblies of Canada and trained in the integration of spiritual disciplines in therapy. She joined full time Christian service in her youth and has served in various capacities such as Associate Pastor, Children's Pastor, Women's Ministries Coordinator, and Youth Ministries Facilitator.

Florence and her family migrated to Canada in the late 1990s and settled in Southwestern Ontario. She sought opportunities of service and continued her ministry within Ontario and into the United States; sharing her spiritual resources as a speaker at Women's Fellowships, intergenerational rallies and retreats, family camps, and conferences.

Florence is also an Associate Professional Faculty at Martin Luther University College in the department of Spiritual Care and Psychotherapy. Her writing journey evolved out of her reflective practices on her personal and professional experiences.

You can find Florence on:

Facebook: Flojumabooks

Twitter: @flojuma2

Website: florencejuma.com

Blog: florencejuma.com

BOOK DESCRIPTION

Death Did Us Part

“Carrying my children, one wrapped around my back and the other fastened to my chest, I left the house and walked for one hour to my father’s home. We were drenched and cold on arrival but happy to find my father there along with two of my siblings. One of my siblings made us tea with scones while the other entertained the children. The day slipped by more quickly than I would have preferred. Soon it was evening and I had to pack my children up and head back.”

—excerpt from Death Did Us Part

Death Did Us Part is a short story about the tumultuous marital relationship of a couple at the brink of divorce. The book, based on a true story, is a reflection on some of the pitfalls that plagued the marriage of Akawd and Muka and brought it to its deathbed. Akawd and Muka were both committed Christians and leaders in their church when they immigrated to Canada from Africa.

By sharing this story, I provide an opportunity for readers to both understand better and observe possible parallels that might exist between their own relationship and this couple’s. My hope is that these patterns may then be named and externalized. The book also serves to celebrate marriages and the couples who keep their vows.

ISBN: 978-1-4866-1798-2

Format: 5.5" x 8.5"

Page Count: 96

Canadian Retail Price: $10.99

Print Availability: Chapters/Indigo, Amazon, Word Alive Press, and wherever fine Christian books are sold.

eBook Availability: Amazon’s Kindle Store, Apple iBooks, Kobo, Google Play, Scribd, and in Adobe PDF format for additional vendors.

Death Did Us Part by Florence A. Juma, RP

ENDORSEMENTS

Acclaim for Death Did Us Part

"In Death Did Us Part Dr. Juma presents a case study of an African Christian couple living in Canada and facing the challenges of a broken relationship. They struggle with whether they can live together and wonder if the marriage has died. This struggle challenges their Christian faith and African family values.

"The book is a great read for therapists and for members of congregations who are called to walk with the couple through these difficult times. Death Did Us Part shows the complexities of the cultural clash between African Christian values and Western Canadian values around marriage and divorce. It does not provide any easy answers and yet shows the power of listening of a Christian caregiver."

—Thomas St. James O'Connor, ThD, RP
Professor Emeritus, Wilfrid Laurier University

INTERVIEW QUESTIONS

For Florence A. Juma, RP:

- Why did you decide to write about such a personal and sensitive topic?
- What do you think are the greatest challenges for newer immigrant couples?
- How does faith inform your professional practice?
- What is the interplay of faith and culture in resolving marital conflicts?
- What are the differences between secular approaches and sacred approaches in therapy?
- Is there a place for oral traditions in contemporary family therapy?
- What are your thoughts on separation and divorce among people of faith?
- What do you hope that readers will gain from your book?

For media inquiries or to schedule an interview with Florence, please contact:

Tia Friesen
Project Manager, Word Alive Press
866.967.3782 ext. 214
tia@wordalivepress.ca

ABOUT WORD ALIVE PRESS

Who We Are

At Word Alive Press, we pride ourselves on being accessible and providing excellent one-on-one customer care. That means that you reach real people who are genuinely interested in seeing your manuscript come to life and have an impact on your readers.

The publishing industry can be intimidating to a new author, and we're here to answer your questions and clarify the mysteries of publishing. We are neither a traditional publisher nor a self-publisher. We provide professional publishing services and distribution (like a traditional publisher), though there is a cost to publishing with us (like a self-publisher). We support authors through the process, provide feedback on marketability, offer marketing services, and have publishing industry standards.

How Did We Get Started?

Word Alive Inc. began as a distributor over thirty years ago and today is one of the largest and most trusted suppliers of Christian books, entertainment, and giftware in Canada. They represent over thirty publishing houses in the Canadian market of Christian bookstores, trade bookstores, such as Chapters/Indigo, Costco, Superstores, and Wal-Mart, as well as thousands of churches, ministries and schools.

With Word Alive Inc.'s relationship with publishers in mind, authors would often approach the company looking either for a publisher or a distributor for their books. Seeing the high calibre of these manuscripts, and the lack of interest in them from traditional publishers, an idea was formed. Word Alive Press was created in a format best described in today's vernacular as a "hybrid" publisher—a company that harnesses the power of conventional royalty-based publishing, Word Alive Inc.'s distribution, all while being easily accessible to Canadian authors.

On June 1 of 2016, Word Alive Inc. (the distributor) merged with US-based Anchor Distributors. This new North American strategy directly benefits our Canadian authors as their books will now be stocked and available to the U.S. market, as well as Canada. This nugget of history is a major distinction between our services and those of any other publishing company. Since our inception, sales, marketing, and distribution have been at the forefront of our growth. We understand the Canadian Christian market, and our authors benefit from that expertise.